VIRTUAL WORKSHOP

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 18, 2020

GUIDANCE FOR RISING STAR PRESENTATIONS

Presentation format

- We ask that you pre-record your presentation and send it to us no later than Monday, December 14, 2020.
- You will have 12 minutes to present, followed by 3 minutes of live Q&A (via zoom).
- You will be one of 10 ‘Rising star’ workshop attendees presenting sequentially within your session, prior to the opportunity to engage in a ‘Mock interview’ practice with Columbia faculty.
- Your audience will be registered attendees (spanning diverse areas of medicine and engineering), other speakers and interested Columbia faculty.

Presentation content

What you choose to present within your 12 minutes is up to you, but as general guidance:

1. Briefly tell us who you are, what stage of your career you are at, and your prior training.
2. Tell us about your work, to date (e.g., your current work, or one exciting result / paper / research area that you wish to share).
3. Tell us a little about your future research plans (e.g., based on your submitted proposal).

Please ensure that you don't exceed 12 minutes – any recordings lasting longer 12 minutes will be truncated.

Recording your video

- Please provide the video as an .mp4 with 1920 x 1080 resolution.
- Please try to record in a way that includes video of you speaking alongside your slides.
- Please be sure to use a microphone and / or minimize background noise during recording.
- You can use Zoom to make such a recording (see here for details).
- If the compression / downsampling of your presentation is an issue, you may also wish to try using OBS Studio (available free from <https://obsproject.com/>).
- We are happy to help! If you need assistance with your recording, please confirm no later than Friday, December 11th.

Sending your video to us

- Since your recording may be large, please send it via a cloud-based service such as Dropbox or Google Drive.
- It is preferred that you send it as a Link within an email to bme@columbia.edu with “Rising Star Workshop Presentation” in the subject line.
- If you are unable to embed the link to your file in an email, please send an email to bme@columbia.edu to confirm that you have shared the file and ensure you receive confirmation of receipt.

We look forward to meeting you on December 18th!
